A high frequency "energy membrane" or "bubble" is forming around the Earth that will help the collective ascension of humanity according to Dr. David Clements, a former professional physicist. He says that the membrane is part of a network of twelve that project outwards from the Earth's core that have been created by highly evolved extraterrestrials working closely with the planetary consciousness. The membranes will help protect the Earth from unpredictable solar events and also facilitate the development of higher states of consciousness up to 5D and 6D levels, according to Dr. Clements.

He says that January 15 is a critical date as that is when the outermost membrane is completed in low Earth orbit. The coincidental deployment of 4400 Starlink satellites to low Earth orbit around the same time may be related to an official effort to neutralize the frequency membrane, but human technology will be unable to interfere, according to Dr. Clements.

In an in-depth discussion with Dr. Michael Salla, they analyze recent developments concerning the accelerated use and deployment of Artificial Intelligence in the Trump administration and why AI will prove to be unsuitable in the long term, as more humans develop a strong connection to Source Intelligence. Finally, humanity is not destined to split into different frequency groups, but will instead collectively evolve with connectivity with Source Intelligence being the sine qua non of future life on Earth, according to Dr. Clements.

DR.SALLA: Dr. David Clements has advanced degrees from Oxford and Cambridge University. He works as a professional string theorist. He got to work very closely with the inventor John Bedini and Dr. Thomas Bearden. He began remote viewing after receiving a remote viewing kit and soon established communications with different extraterrestrials and now he has a number of different extraterrestrial teams that are advising him which includes Pleiadians and Andromedans and the Elohim and he has some recent exciting information about these membranes being created around our solar system and the planet Earth.

DR.SALLA: Welcome David back to the show.
DAVID: Hello Michael it's really good to be back. I'm really looking forward to getting into some really cool topics again.
DR.SALLA: Well we've done a few interviews in the past and I've discussed a few of your inventions and I guess people are, I know that they're very excited about your healing devices because they've had some great reviews. You've generously gifted me a couple and we use them all the time and I know David Icke at Iconic uses some of your healing devices to great effect. Yes any kind of updates on those kind of healing devices that you've been putting together and releasing?

DAVID: Yes and there's I mean the research we do here is always ongoing and we have got some very exciting things that are coming forward. Although I'll probably sort of I'll definitely get an announcement to those when they're already to, but you've seen some of the blueprints for some of them and that's just a pool of some of the directions that we're taking and it's very exciting stuff. It's the joy that I get in doing these because I know the benefit that it's going to give not just humanity, but the Earth as well is something very important to me.

And it's really exciting because it deals with energetic science that I really had to open up to from my past experience as a theoretician, a theoretic physicist, learning to come through and learn from people like John Bedini and Tom Bearden and really, really legendary people like that. And yes so there's going to be some very interesting announcements in the near future and I'll be definitely happy to share those with the as they come into fruition.

DR.SALLA: Yes well as you said you showed me some of the blueprints and very, very exciting stuff and I guess, like everything, the inventions that you are able to develop you're coming up with those with the help of your teams and the kind of like planetary consciousness kind of influences that a lot. If people aren't ready for something, if the planetary consciousness isn't ready then that invention is going to be held back. But I guess that the thing, we're still waiting for the planetary consciousness to evolve to a sufficient point where some of these advanced technologies can be released.

DAVID: Yes that's a very interesting question. It's a little bit of a balancing act because in one way by very slowly introducing the exposure of these technologies to people, the fields, the energies that they trap they emanate and give off. It actually starts to accelerate the raising and expansion of people which therefore facilitates an even greater exposure therein.

So it's kind of like a little bit of a dog chasing it so entailed, but the dog does eventually get there instead of just going around in circles. And so yes the my feeling is and I feel this goes back to Nikola Tesla's time because a lot of people have speculated that he was held back by higher expressions of consciousness because they wanted the sort of initial key in for those technologies to come in and those energetics, but at that particular time of full-on development worldwide of that kind of energy it's almost like it would just break things to pieces in such a way that humanity's consciousness, it's not just about systems, it's about people's consciousness as well. Because as we move into these eras of more advanced living energy technologies, it goes hand in hand with people's conscious development and my experience of bi-locating and going to these meeting these very advanced beings even just doing the bi-location, I can only do it for so long when I have to come back because it brings my stuff up to the surface.

It elevates, it changes my consciousness just by that interaction and then I get to clear that off and then dust myself off and carry on and then go again. They made that very clear, that that is a very key point about what's happening with humanity and the progress of what we call the disclosure process because the further we expand and develop within ourselves, the closer we are bringing that ourselves and they have made it very, very poignant to me.

I would like to add is that disclosure isn't up to organizations or groups or anything like that. It's actually up to us that we are really the key components in this and by people working on themselves, developing themselves we're actually moving and changing the dynamic timelines that that we're actually creating ourselves to put ourselves in a position consciously and energetically where we really can have those experiences that we're looking for. I think that's pretty important point to me.

DR.SALLA: Now people are constantly asking about medbed technologies and I know you've had some experiences I remember that account you described of going into a starship of some very highly evolved beings and then showing you different medbeds. Is this again one of those things where this delay in their release is that because our consciousness isn't quite there yet. I mean does the Deep State need to be removed? That's one of the explanations that people give Do those so-called White Hats need to get a certain degree of influence and power? What's the delay in the release of medbeds?

DAVID: That's an interesting question. I'm not sure I can fully answer that one, but I can give you my perspective and it's an interesting one because the term medbed can actually apply to a whole spectrum of different devices and what you might call technologies. Now so I'll just give a quick overview for people who are new to some of this.

Some of the experience I've had of what you might consider sort of a an ET based medbed system is that it was a very advanced intelligent living field system which could organize matter very quickly and if there were any imperfections, anything that wasn't working right these intelligent living systems were just simply reorganizing could make alterations and changes in ways that our science is absolutely not familiar with at all.

We think in terms of very nuts and bolts and moving things around and clicking things together and that's very much the sort of bread and butter of most of humanity's technological consciousness, but we're being very much moved into a conscious state where we begin to understand the living nature of energy itself and what makes up what we call the material realm or matter and other things and constructs such as molecules, DNA, cells all of it is a giant living organism in and of itself and it's all interconnected.

I would say that this there is that aspect of it. Coming back to your question, now there may also be logistics that from the point of view of the White Hats about how to deliver this, how to put this out there what's the best way because I believe that they're constantly monitoring and seeing how people respond to certain pieces of information that they put out say how do they deal with that what are the reactions know where are people moving with this kind of thing. So it's quite a complex from a societal point of view my view is it's a very complex scenario, but at the same token the advanced races that are assisting in helping this forward have very profound, but very just incredibly beautiful innovations that like I said when you go into them, you feel the elevation, you feel what they're doing.

These work not to orientate you along how a group of scientists have made a device and think this is how we think your body should work, go in here, this will do xyz and you'll come out orientated oriented in that way biologically. These systems work with your highest of these ET systems.
They work with the higher aspects of yourself and they work to change or make evolutionary energetic changes on levels in in ways like I said that are very fluid, very dynamic and make changes that are in alignment with your core.
That's a class of what I would call a medbed technology which I believe is the most appropriate form because it's one thing to have a technology that does something to you which is based on the consciousness of the inventor to do a certain thing to you, but that if that doesn't take into account your core consciousness, who you really are, and orientate itself in that way it may be orientating or steering you in a direction that you may not necessarily energetically be following.
That's when I found with these advanced ET races that have that at the core of what they are doing. It's all about very much an absolute respect for the core being that is their receiving whatever it is they're doing. They don't just take it upon themselves just to go yes let's do that to them and that's great by us. It doesn't matter what they think. It's not like that very much in symbiosis with the core intelligence the Source Intelligence within that being and that to me is where I see and I envision that this kind of healing technology is going to go, so that is that is my that is my view of things, definitely.
DR.SALLA: Well I know with the inventions that you've released that are available now and people have them and are using them that they do precisely that that they actually do connect with the core consciousness and so as you said there's a kind of symbiosis there because I guess the bottom line is that if someone gets an illness or rather than just jumping into the nearest medbed and being cured by that you need to consult your higher self, but well why did I get this? Why am I suffering from this? There's a lesson to be learned there.

There's something that needs to be cleared. So you got to work at that level and then the healing can be explored.
DAVID: Yes that's a very important point because this is all essentially about the level of our core consciousness or core intelligence within us and where we are in that. The reason why I say it like that is because imbalances, misdirections of energy, misappropriated energy is usually caused by low level of consciousness forcing, pushing, pulling, misdirecting.
There is a whole slew of things that we do as human beings that we don't necessarily mean to do, but we end up doing to ourselves adding to the many layers of what you might call misappropriated or conflicting energetics that we create and that creates imbalances and all sorts of other things and a very loose kind of nutshell.
And my experience with these very high dimensional beings is they have such a flowing balance within them because they've made such connection within their core self that organization of everything from a material point of view, if they have material bodies, all the way through the field layers that make them up is all in this synergistic intelligent flow that self-organizes because of the intelligent emanations that come from their core and literally branch out in a way of speaking and organize everything in that that very beautiful synergistic harmonious way.
But as human beings because of the what you might call the fractured nature in which we have been living because of having a whole bunch of different traumatic events and different lifetimes carried forward there's a whole series of massive conflicts that go in from one form to another.
And that manifests itself it manifests in how the matter in us gets organized how flows happen in our bodies, a whole manner of things, but essentially we're not emanating as a species the level of consciousness required to intelligently handle the biological systems that we inhabit as conscious beings properly.
I believe that's why we see things going the way they they're going.
So you reached a very important point that is all about it's not just about fixing an interruption or a breakdown in an energetic flow, it's understanding consciously how that we have created and developed that to begin with.

It's a very, very key point and that's one that my teams are always I kind of do coin a phrase harpy about you know to say that okay now that that's happened do you understand how you created that to happen and go inside clear that and stop the blockage stop the mismanaged redirection of energy and then allow everything to go back into balance again. So yes that's a big, big part of it definitely.
DR.SALLA: Now the last time we did an interview you talked about these incoming galactic energies and also these energies emerging out of the Inner Earth and that they were kind of like forming almost like a pincer movement on our planet's surface and some of the interior and those beings that had kind of like more negative orientations were being forced out or being forced to change. So, yes what's the latest on that these energies that are coming into our planet.
DAVID: Yes, this is really exciting. To start with the teams had said that around this time, sometime before December, that around December the 4th these waves incoming waves that are being emitted from the Sun were going to impact the Earth. And I thought oh that's cool. I didn't expect to feel anything. I just thought, "Okay, they've told me that information. That's really cool." But I woke up on the 4th of December and my goodness, the rays in energy that I could feel by these waves coming through was really palpable. And me and my wife were having discussions and she could feel them very strongly as well.
And I and I did a live stream and I just cheekily said, "Did anybody feel anything on the fourth by any happened happen chance?" And everyone was go, "Yes, yes, we felt it." It was this massive rush of energy. And I thought, "Ah, that's cool. And so they just to give a little bit of context here. So they described that there was there was an ignition happening within the Sun by these massive vessels that were within and around the solar system and that this membrane or sort of spherical non-material field. I struggled to find the words to describe it because we talk so much in material terms. It's really hard to describe something that's nonmaterial. And that was going up around the solar system. And inside the solar system, they were leveling up the nature of energy and energy behavior. And that's what I call physics.

Physics is just a synonym for the behavior of energy. And so they were leveling that up and changing it inside. So, and essentially part of this grand project where this solar system is slowly being introduced and reintegrated as part of a galactic whole again. So instead of being sort of cut off and so being a spot over here where humanity was going through this sort of lower dimensional experience of going through all sorts of difficult lessons we're now being leveled up. Now, that was what we talked about last time.
And since then, what they've made clear to me is that internally in all of the planets of the solar system, there are these membrane structures, nested membranes. So, it's like a spherical bubble within a bubble within a bubble within a bubble. And these are in the interior of the planets. And that the and so far they said the Earth has 12 of them.
And they're coming back online. Now, in the interior of each of these membranes, energies can be literally designed in very particular ways. These membranes, and we'll get on to that in a second. I don't want to rush too much and confuse people. But they were saying these were coming back online and they had been dormant because of this massive elongated experience of humanity dropping down into third density, into these lower forms.
So, they were literally just switching off and remaining dormant. Now within the solar system they said other similar membranes within the planetary bodies were also coming back online but that Venus and Jupiter already had very highly functioning membrane systems within the planetary form itself. They also said that these membranes are related to planetary orbits. How planets orientate themselves the orbits they take.
So there's this big there's a lot to uncover that I'm still unearthing with the information they're giving me about this. But they were saying that these the one that's now happening now which is you've got the 12 interior ones in the Earth and there's a there's one that's forming it's it'll be fully formed around mid-January so a matter of a week or so that is coming online and what they're doing is it ends it the membrane is about low Earth orbit.

So anything within the interior of that membrane bra, the energies are being adjusted and raised. And what they described to me was that so far in human evolution in the years gone past, you see this little sort of like little step up, little step up, little step up. And in each sort of month or week, you get these little jumps.
But with this membrane going on, it's now going to start to do this quite fast because when they when they first switched it on. I felt this real it's almost like the energetic quality of the air itself had started to change. Living energetics are being introduced in the interior of this membrane as best as I can describe it. and everything's really beginning to accelerate and they said you will notice that as this ramp up takes place. You'll notice that people who haven't quite resolved their stuff getting a little bit more crankier and snappier and it's going to churn people's stuff up very distinctly.
So they said that's something that you will notice and the old energies are going to be sort of kick and flail and do all sorts of things because it's all designed to really ramp up the dissolution of this and really take this this planetary energetic really into these new states. And it's all inclusive because the in addition to that, they were showing me that all the different planetary bodies within the solar system were interconnected with these membranes.
And the phrase that came to me as they were describing this, you probably heard this, the phrase the music of the spheres.
And it suddenly hit me. I thought maybe that's what this refers to. I don't know. But this this seemed to me to be it exactly because these spherical membranes and they're like bubbles when you get a bit of liquid and you blow bubbles. They're literally like a membrane, like a bubble, an energetic bubble where they said the interior literally the physics of the interior can be designed exactly as these advanced races wish it to be.
And they were saying when you consider galaxies the way galaxies rotate. Well cosmologists have sort of struggled to understand how galaxies sort of rotate in the ways that they do. And what my team showed me was that well actually each galaxy is in an enormous bubble this one of these membranes by itself and the whole bubble rotates with everything in it. So it's like an environment within an environment energetically speaking.

So yes, there's I mean I don't know if you want to unpack anything there or you have any questions on any of that, but there's a there's quite a bit of quite a bit of information there.
DR.SALLA: Yes well it's very interesting that you mentioned that that one of these membranes are forming just above the Earth's surface and that it's playing this important role in upgrading planetary consciousness and so forth and it comes online you mentioned kind of like mid-January.
Now what immediately came to mind to me is that, wow, what are the chances that SpaceX or Starlink would around that same time were going to deploy, I can't remember the exact number, but several thousand of their satellites. They're going to deploy them lower in the Earth's orbit.
So I'm wondering well is this something they're anticipating is this something that Starlink is taking action to kind of counter the effect of these membranes because it just wouldn't put it past me that Starlink is already starting to play this controlling role on behalf of the military, because they already have something called Star Shield and apparently and I was going to ask you about that later, but I might as well throw it in now, that they were going to start already blocking radio signals from 3I Atlas is Starlink and SpaceX all playing this role of, I mean, now that the Deep State's been removed, but now SpaceX Starlink is playing the role of well the White Hats we're going to allow this, but they're not going to allow that. It's a very interesting. I didn't know what you know about that?
DAVID: What you mentioned about that's very interesting because the teams are very specific that this membrane was in low Earth orbit that's how where the membrane was forming all around the Earth and we spoke in in pre-in chatting and the distinct impression I get and I think this is going to be a very, very exciting thing for people oh interesting okay I see it now yes It's that when my teams were telling me this information cuz when they when they talk to me, you get a you get almost an imprint of a kind of how can I say when you're talking to someone, you get an emotional sense of where they are. They're saying the words, but you get an impression of the energy they're actually emitting. So, as close as analogy I can make, when the teams were saying this, I got the feeling that they were taking over is the wrong word.

These beings are at such a level such an advanced state that it doesn't actually really matter what any group of human beings actually do, that was the very clear impression I got that this ascension process, this reintroduction of Earth and the solar system back into a galactic community was being handled by beings and expansive intelligences that are not in individuated form at such a high level that it's I could I could feel them sort of smiling at the idea that humans would think that they could develop any kind of technology that would mess around with this.
It simply wouldn't because what you got to remember is that human technologies are based on assembling material components in whatever complex form to make something of an instrument that does X,Y,Z. These beings have access to the fundamentals that actually make the matter which actually form the spatial systems that they have access to it all. this it would be like I don't know somebody who has I don't know access to the entire fundamentals of how Lego is built and then somebody puts together a Lego machine and says right I'm going to come at you with this.
I'm sorry, I can just dissolve that straight away it's in a fun-loving way but the thing is that the nature of energy, the nature of living consciousness, the nature of these membranes, the very advanced nature of all of this.
These beings in human terms can only be described and not a very good description as just the these are very ancient and advanced beings. They know what they're doing. They know where things are going and this is all part of a bigger project. This is not just a few humans deciding where they are going to take everybody else. It really isn't.
And that was the very clear impression I got from these beings. And they treat it at a very humorous way. They almost smile and laugh at kind of human activities and what we get up to down here. But again, the very clear impression I got is that this what let's call it Project Ascension, Project Earth Integration, whatever you want to call it, is moving along in very fast steps now.

It's moving very profoundly and it's being handled by beings who are so far beyond how can I say anything that can be touched by let's just say current human hands even the most the very advanced stuff that they have probably tucked away behind the scenes whatever that is it wouldn't even come close to what these beings can do and what they're capable of doing.
And scale doesn't mean anything to them. They can create these amazing things around solar systems, larger planetary size. It's all the same to them. It really is. That's kind of somewhat of an inkling of how advanced these beings are. So once again, the message that that I feel they wanted to give to people is don't worry, this is in good hands. No matter what you see or hear, this is in very good hands.
DR.SALLA: Yes, so there's this membrane that's formed around the Earth or will be complete around January 15 and no matter the efforts of anyone whether it's Deep State or whether it's White Hats and Elon Musk, they really can't interfere with that because it’s really, I guess, commensurate with the rising consciousness and aspirations of humanity and that's what the ETs are looking at. Yes, so you're saying also that these membranes are also forming around or have formed around our entire solar system as well so it’s the same process.
DAVID: Yes it’s it seems within and I’m still learning a lot of this myself because this is very profound at what I call living energy science and, but what they described is that these membranes the interior can be does the physics within the interior of a membrane can be designed exactly the way that the beings that created it or generated it wish to have it and the impression I got is every galaxy out there sub-solar system has these membranes and they each have unique physics within them which create environment of experience for different beings to go and have.
So these membranes seem to be absolutely fundamental or the concept of this membrane whatever you want to call it I don't think membranes such a good word, but it's the closest thing I have to describing it right now is enormous and they've described it in terms of like these advanced beings. That's how they do some of them the most amazing things that they do.

When people have pictured these amazing light ships that just fall fluidly and the massive vessels that they are and just and disappear quite quickly and have the appearance to be able to move through the air at lightning velocities zero to goodness knows what without seemingly disturbing a single molecule of air.
This is the thing when you when you create a membrane from what they described what's inside the membrane can be moved around it's decoupled from the physics within another membrane that it might be formed in.
So you get this impression of how these higher states can move around the way they do. They have access to this and the other key thing is that membrane technology is a bit of a bad word, but the generation of membranes is held at a very high level you can't do it unless you're at a certain level which is a beautiful design because it stops people who have less than grace intent from actually getting access and doing this.
They can't do it. It's impossible. This is the information that they've given me and you have to be at least well I mean to give you I mean this is really reaching up into eighth-dimensional level and beyond this is very, very high stuff, but they can seed these in and they can create environments and they can and they were saying it literally comes down to the very finer fabrics of atoms themselves, the membrane structure within atoms and the energies that make up atoms it's like a fractal, it's like membranes within membranes within membranes holding different types of interior physics that go on inside. It's pretty mind-blowing if you ask me.
DR.SALLA: How does it work in practical terms? I mean if you've got like 12 membranes that are formed within the Earth and one of them is encircling the Earth and you also have these membranes that are recently being formed around the solar system. Then again do you have like 12 membranes around the solar system. And how do beings pass if you have something like coming in like I mean 3I Atlas, for example, coming in from outside our solar system and passing right through? Does that just go through each membrane? Is it able to do that without any problem? Does it change?

DAVID: Yes, that's a good observation. I feel that what it has to do with from the what they've described to me is that depending on the interior physics that each membrane has one they can overlap and there can be an overlap between the events that happen within each membrane and it reminded me of a lot of the footage that some people have taken with advanced ET vessels just suddenly disappearing or opening up portals.
I suspect, although I don't know, this is pure speculation on my behalf, that this is kind of one of the ways and certainly the advanced races use this because it it's completely non-local in space time, you can put them wherever you want to.
It's not that you have to traverse space and time at a high velocity to get anywhere, but I my feeling is that a lot of the stories about beings that were able to say levitate or apparently dematerialize is that they were able to consciously handle these membrane formations and move themselves sort of in a word dislocate themselves from the local physics or environment and appear to disappear or move up. So they could shield themselves from certain effects like inertia or gravity those kind of things. So it reaches into just about everything as far as I can see. So that's one of the exciting things I think for humanity moving forward as these beings start to introduce people to membranes and how they work and the amazing the unlimited things that you can do once you're at that level and you can then generate them and apply them
DR.SALLA: Now is this something I guess you can tune into or connect with that at a consciousness level I mean the these membranes and the incoming galactic core energies or the energies coming out from the Inner Earth I mean can we connect with those and what's going to happen as you do that?
DAVID: Yes that's an interesting question and I asked them if they wanted me to get this information to the public when we spoke over the phone and they were quite keen for people to get an introduction, but there might be other people around the world that also have this information that are doing similar interviews right now.

I don't know, but they seem keen for people to really become familiar with the idea of membranes, that these are fundamental to the makeup of what we call spatial realities physics, those kind of things and that yes you can consciously change them and in fact some of the civilizations that I've connected with describe these processes. This is before I understood what they were what they were talking about was a membrane and one of the processes they described about how they move around on these little platforms and it literally creates a membrane which is now dislocated from the inertial and even gravitational principles from the environment they're in. They can simply move around using their consciousness to direct and move the bubble wherever they want to.

So it was extraordinary stuff to see and I had to grapple a little bit because some of the oldest sort of physics stuff I did beforehand was kind of putting in a bit of a resistance there, but when I really felt and saw what they were doing it made so much sense that because they've said so many times the very advanced technologies that you see that these beings use, there's a very simplistic underlying truth to it.

But to get access to that you have to raise up consciously and energetically in order to be able to work with those things and my feeling was that their hope for humanity moving forward quite speedily is to learn about these things raise your energy, raise your consciousness gain access to all these fantastical things that will take you everywhere and anywhere you ever wish to be in anything you want to do, the whole doors of creativity really open to you. When you get access to those kinds of things and it's designed in such a beautiful way to make sure that you could you can only access them once you're at a certain level of spiritual maturity you can't just be technologically advanced making all sorts of new-fangled systems and think you're going to get access, you simply won't.

It's just it's not going to work that way and that's something that they were very clear about. I feel when they were talking on it.

DR.SALLA: Yes, that kind of raises something that Elon Musk said, I was just talking about which is that the intelligence of AI is going to race so much more quickly than human intelligence that eventually human intelligence will be kind of like tiny in comparison to AI. And I just kind of responded to that in my x-feed saying well there's different types of intelligence. There's emotional intelligence. There's psychic intelligence and then there's Source Intelligence.

So do you want to kind of like maybe give an answer to people like Elon Musk who think that well AI is going to solve all that because there's so much faster and quicker and much more intelligent than the human brain.
DAVID: Yes. And that's a there's a lot to unpack there. Let's start here. That's one of the things I lovingly call it, AI. I call it the Absence of Intelligence because it's a material created form to mimic intelligence or the Source Intelligence that we have within us. So we as living beings occupy a material body to have an experience but the intelligence that we have originates from the Source Intelligence of all that is and an imaginable non-material something that is beyond the description of any material words to even pin down. You just can't do it. And as living beings, we got through these stages and thought, "Oh, what if we put these material pieces together in such a complex for oh look, it's reacting now. When we poke it here or we put an input in here, we can form these in such a way to mimic the neurological formation of the human brain and then see if we can get it to act like a human brain.
But it's purely reactionary and reaction and response in a way in its fundamental ways because Absence of Intelligence doesn't create. It takes input. It permutes it. It basically mulsters it around transforms and then gives out a response essentially, but it's not capable of creating anything. That's another thing. So it's like a deck of cards. You can permute or shuffle up and change the cards as many as many combinations as is possible with a 52 or 50 odd pack of cards, but it's going to reach a limit because now you've exhausted every possible combination of a certain order that you've predefined as to what you can get out of it and that's it.
So this is the trouble with purely material existence and material intelligence is it reaches an impasse once it's done all possible permutations of material possibilities. That's it. And without creating anything new there will never be anything more new. So I would say in my view it's the difficulty with people who are very intellectually orientated is they misunderstand the deeper level and deeper nature of what intelligence is.

It becomes almost an obsession that everything is just a mental game of just becoming faster, stronger more calculable in your thoughts and therefore you're becoming more intelligent. I disagree with that. I would say that the mind is a beautiful instrument, but it's not the core of the intelligence and it's an instrument that that is an applicator of the very core intelligence and when it aligns with that it can be a very beautiful blissful instrument, but if it takes on itself and starts to flail around and think that it's going to out outwit or outperform, so to speak, Source Intelligence. It's got another think coming.
So that's the thing, these advanced beings and I won race. I remember and they were saying that they had dabbled in Absence of Intelligence and it all led to massive problems, big conflicts, there was huge destruction, all sorts of things and they said they'd learned to put that in their words they learned to put that nonsense behind them.
They understand that the core intelligence is within and the intelligence within is beyond anything that anyone can construct materialistic, electronically, technologically, it doesn't matter how big your servers are or how big your computer systems are. It will never ever even I mean, it's not I can't even find the words for it. It can't even touch upon the expansivity, the creativity, and the unlimited unendingness of what Source Intelligence is.
So, I I'm very much of the Source Intelligence route. I don't really use or have no time for what you know I lovingly call the Absence of Intelligence stuff and to me it’s not a, session is probably the wrong word. It's a fascination of people who are too caught up in intellectual endeavor that they've lost a little bit too much contact with their Source Intelligence and they've forgotten where the real core intelligence is. And that to me is in the core.
DR.SALLA: Well yes I think it's very important that we understand that there are different types of intelligence that the problem solvers.

The people that are kind of like inclined towards policymaking that they gravitate to Artificial Intelligence because they see it as being so much quicker than human intelligence something like, for example, chess you mean the world's best chess player Magnus Coulson, I mean he can't he can't beat the fastest computers now in chess.
So they extrapolate from that and saying well the machines computers are better than humans they're more intelligent than humans, but there's these other forms of intelligence that machines or AI can't replicate. You've mentioned Source Intelligence. Yes, one of the things that comes to mind for me is a psychic intelligence. There was this great series called Babylon 5, I don't know if you ever saw it, always one of my favorites. Yes, like that's cool and they talked about like a side 10 and even right people that's like abilities up to side 10 I can't remember what the upper limit was, but it's like humans have this ability to be able to develop psychic gifts or psychic things that just way beyond anything a machine or an AI can do.
So why in the world would you want to give your power away to a machine to rule over us
DAVID: Well, this is the thing it's crazy. I get people emailing me that they actually use this stuff to ask spiritual questions and I'm thinking really you're trying to ask a purely sort of materialistic technological response machine to come up with answers to things which involve an intelligence and access to things that are far above what it can access. It's nonsensical.
And this is the thing because I believe we're going through this experience because I think humanity has had people on this planet right now have had many different lifetimes in different solar systems and different civilizations some of which have dabbled in this and come across great conflict and massive tragedy because of it.
I believe what we're doing is this is coming forward now to show humanity look you did this before and what happened before. Do you really want to go this route again? You know, so I believe this is kind of a choice point for a lot of people. And yes, there will be people who are intellectually fascinated by it.

And it's worth pointing out that a lot of people are starting to notice the what they call the hallucination or even fabrication effect of what absence of intelligence is doing. A lot of people in the in medical fields who are getting it to write reports and citations and things like that. Turns out all a lot of the citations that it creates don't even exist. They're fictitious. And the second thing is I ask people I said well what stops say a malevolent entity or thought form from taking control of you and doing all sorts of weird things. It's your heart center. It's the Source Intelligence. They can't exist in that. It's literally it dissolves them. Now, what's stopping the same thing from grabbing hold of a technological instrument such as an Absence of Intelligence doing the same?

Absolutely nothing. There's nothing in there to stop that happening. So, what really is but, the ghost in the machine, so to speak, what's really going on there? So, there's a lot of questions I think that people perhaps need to start asking themselves about this. And like I said to me the optimum intelligence of everything that knows how to harmonize everything. It has unlimited creativity to create unlimited realities, experiences never ending is Source Intelligence.

An Absence of Intelligence is really a reflection in my perspective of people who have become a little bit too fascinated with their own intellectual possibilities and forgotten where the real intelligence actually comes from and they're just trying to mimic that intellectual quality only rather than the really powerful deep intelligence that's within them waiting to come forward.

DR.SALLA: Now I'm just kind of wondering if there's a kind of very practical way of demonstrating what is Source Intelligence and to my mind. Probably the best way would be to identify the Sun. I mean the Sun as an expression of Source Intelligence and so how do we better connect with the Sun to understand what's what Source Intelligence is all about.

DAVID: Yes well there's all this whole thing with the with the membranes that I spoke of that the ignition of the Sun that's happening is all part of the same envelope if you like and it's all about elevating humanity back into a truer connection within themselves, the higher self their Source self whatever you call it because when you look at the heart intelligence systems the energetic membranes and systems within the Sun and with the core of the Earth

They're very, very similar and there is a synergy between them and I believe what's happening is there is this huge upshift towards living Source intelligent energetics that humanity is being moving and that's part of the ascension process in my view of what's actually happening and we're leaving behind the more materialistic synthetic technological approaches which are purely intellectual driven into something where we're then going to get access to stuff that is far more advanced, far more beautiful, far more expansive, that you can it's just not possible to go from a material point of view, an intellectual point of view and gain access to.
that's why at some point each race or civilization has to learn to either put aside over obsession with intellectual endeavor and bring that back into balance to say it's just one instrument of many faculties you have to apply the core intelligence within and there's all sorts like you say other intelligences high dimensional communicative intelligences energy sensory intelligences there's so many of lots of which the intellect is not privy to because it's not designed as an instrument to do that.
So this these are all the facets that I feel the Arcturian sighting in the future of near future of humanity as we learn we get introduced to this and we learn to explore and learn to balance properly because so me the most optimal way of being and certainly I've seen this reflected in the races the very advanced races that I connect with they have that like the Arcturians immense immensely powerful intellect.
They create all sorts of things, but they said to me “You are going to learn there is a world of difference between living mind-centered and living heart-centered and having your mind as an application instrument of your core center which is what they do.
That's why they are revered around the galaxy for what they've done they have such a beautiful balance between heart-centeredness and intellectual prowess and their intellects work from their core heart center.

They don't dominate or try to run the show, so to speak, and that's an indicative energy of all of the advanced races. They learn to balance their faculties within their core intelligence and they operate from the core always. That's the balance point, the zero point, if you like, people have talked about, that a lot. You know, that really is the ultimate of all zero points.

DR.SALLA: Yes I'd like to just kind of like parse this out a little bit more in terms of where we stand as a planetary civilization with these different membranes being formed and Source Intelligence kind of like developing more and more in collective consciousness and people developing that because everyone is familiar with the Deep State and how they controlled the planet for a long time and how they've been kind of like sidelined by the so-called White Hats or the Earth alliance and they're looking after, kind of, they're more in sync with the planetary population and want to protect us.

But yet what we see from the White Hats is that they're really pushing this whole AI agenda. They're pushing the transhumanist agenda. I mean you get, for example, the Pentagon just giving the contract for like communications within the department war to Elon Musk's X company and President Trump signs in executive order saying that the United States is intent on my establishing and maintaining superiority in AI.

So on the one hand you have, at the governmental level, total going down this road of developing AI and technology and establishing dominance over other countries on the planet, but at the same time we've got this, as you've been describing, these beautiful Source energy coming in and more and more people waking up, but it seems that there's this kind of like bifurcation or split consciousness between what's happening with the collective consciousness and what's what we're seeing at the level of policymaking and leadership.

DAVID: Yes, these are certainly interesting times that's for sure and the I would say that the I would say that what the teams and these advanced beings have said is that they always smile about this thing it doesn't matter what certain pockets of humanity try to do or want to do they are forgetting they are existing in a living energy system and on a living energy system that we call the Earth which is an intelligence and of itself, but it's not there might certain groups of people might think they're calling the shots, but energetically there are beings who are far beyond anything they can even possibly imagine that are handling the forward motion of things.

So my feeling is, my inner self, my high self is saying, that although there will be choice for people you are we're getting a look again at this absence of intelligent scenario so that we can finally make a clear choice to say no or for some people walk down that rabbit hole again and get the lesson for the end of time.
So the greater and the greater scheme of things what's happening and what they've showed me is that the living energetics the Source energetics the return of material makeup back into the fold of Source Intelligence, so to speak, and that is not an accurate statement in one just trying to find the best words to fit, but it's bringing the Earth systems humanity, humanity's consciousness back into that center so we can actually live and be as the beings that we were meant to be.
Because you can't live a proper life in extreme out-of-balance, in intellectual domination, intellectual obsession. It's going to take you down roads that are just it's just going to lead to. Well we know where it's led to because many different planetary systems have experienced this and that some of them aren't here anymore.
But that's not going to happen this time, no, not at all, this time because those were experiences that people selected to go through and this time it's the clearing stage this time it's right okay now we're kind of reaching the end of the line here and now we want to show everybody this so that you can make your choice.
What I say to everybody and what I do is I just don't use it, don't involve yourself in it. It's very simple. You don't have to involve yourself in any of it because for anything to thrive humanity we're very powerful creator beings.
And for anything that is a created form of any kind to survive, it constantly requires our input, our support, our propping it up, are using it, are developing it to keep going. And if people don't do that, it falls away eventually in one form or another. But more so than that, the energies that are actually coming about are changing the very relationship the way I see it and this is my own perspective of matter's relationship to other aspects of matter.

So anything constructed out of matter is going to fundamentally start going undergoing changes how fast that's going to be in in what way I don't know I couldn't tell you, but the image that I keep seeing from my higher self is there are going to be some delightful wild cards that's in human terms that's being said that are going to come out and it's going to steer things in beautiful new directions even though it may look like oh my god where are we headed suddenly things are going to change in ways that people don't expect.
So the words from my higher self who's is connected to all of these teams are saying they're saying in human terms, hold on to your hats. The future's going to get exciting. Yes, there will be bumps. Yes, there will be lessons to learn. And yes, there will be things presented to you so you can understand the deeper level of things. But in the grand scheme of things, the future is unfolding in an incredibly exciting way, a beautiful way, a source centered way. And that's what this plan is about for this solar system and everywhere as it unfolds.
DR.SALLA: Well that raises another question that I have and what kind of future is unfolding because it does seem to me that there is a particular future that we're seeing kind of coming out of this Trump white house and just very recently Elon musk announced that he's going to be building a thousand starships every year and eventually wants to build that up to like 10,000 a year well if they build anything like those numbers they're doing it because the future that they have in mind is one where it's going to be kind of like dominated by these reusable rockets.
So these starships rock liquid propulsion technology whatever propulsion system they have now which is kind of like very limited compared to what we know from the extraterrestrials, but it seems that they're going to be like rolling out this kind of more limited way of being able to travel our solar system through these thousands of starships so that we become like an interplanetary species while behind the scenes you have these secret space programs limited to kind of like small groups that are that are kind of going far out into the galaxy using interstellar warp drives and so forth, but that's going to happen in the lot from a lot of us.

So that's the plan Elon Musk and the Trump white house seem to be kind of like in league to build out that future so this other future how do you think that's going to come in if this is what the plan is.
DAVID: Yes, it's interesting because the I think it comes back to what I was saying before and that is that the level of beings that are handling the energetics that are going on in the solar system and the planet itself which is a very advanced living intelligence at the core that for us a group of people whoever they are to think that it's possible to technologically overcome that level of intelligence and what that intelligence can do it's kind of or you can just sort of have a little bit of giggle at that it's and the bottom line is it doesn't matter what a what a small core group of people do.
And remember in a nutshell as the human species we collectively decide the future timeline it's not an it's not a few a few people who want to try to steer people. And remember how this has been done over humanity's existence that humanity's been fed certain pieces of information that people pick up. They run with it. They believe it, invest in it and then suddenly they're now creating timelines along the lines that the original seeders of that information hoping it to be. But ultimately it's humanity itself that decides our future 100%. It's actually us that are engineering and energetically creating the future timelines we're in and what we align to. And so what I would say to people is one of the most powerful things that you could do as well as working on yourself is decide what future you want to live in and energetically energize that. Don't just take in other people's information about what this person is wanting to create or what that person is wanting to create. Decide for yourself what future do you want to live in and emanate the energy of that because the energy we emanate through all ways that we do it is what is sculpting the very fabric of the timelines that we follow.
So we are literally the engineers and architects of our future. Even though a few people want to try to steer that they do that by influencing people through thought ideas. Oh, what if we do this? What if we do that? Well, you don't have to do any of it. You don't you can take what they're offering and put that right to one side and go with something completely different. And that's what I encourage everybody to do is be in their sovereignity and self. Connect with your higher self, your core, and start creating the future that you want to be in. And in a sense take a step back from living in the seeded narrative if you want to call it that from a host of different from whatever sources that comes including myself. Don't just take what I say as anything. Go into your core self and ask yourself what is it that you want to be living in, what world are you looking to create here and go about doing that definitely.

DR.SALLA: Yes. Well, this kind of like does raise an interesting dilemma for me because I know that some people talk about the splitting of the worlds. They talk about a split in terms of well, some portion of humanity will go into this technological world with AI. Another portion of humanity will go with the deep state because they like power games, competition. And another group will kind of like go more towards this more refined 5D Earth of living in harmony with the Earth with the Sun and source consciousness.

But I know you've in the past you don't see that. you don't see the Earth splitting up that somehow we're all going to go together and that to me raises this dilemma well if we are all going to go together then then how do we in the kind of like alternative community we have a small number of well we have a little bit of outreach but we don't have the millions of followers that someone like Elon Musk has we don't have like three million Pentagon employees are suddenly going to be using Grok to answer basic questions and then the mainstream media getting on board with that. So how do how do how do we in this kind of alternative community that identify with everything you've said and say, "Yes, David I'm fully on board with what you've said. I want to support that."

How do we shift this timeline to go in that direction as opposed to like going down this AI route that Trump and the others want to take us down?

DAVID: Yes, there are two things for that. First of all, like I was saying before, that the before everybody incarnated onto this Earth they understood the process that was taking place and there was there's an agreement in place to go through this and that is the ascension process.

So that's a pre-agreed to condition that people have come in on. Whether they actually make that or make choices counter to that that's up to them as they go into the free will experience we call the human life.
But what I say is that the people the groups of people who are making a choice not to evolve themselves and emanate very advanced energetics and forming and sculpting their realities in their timelines choose to go into intellectual endeavors where their life is about manipulating their surroundings and making gadgets, devices, technologies, huge constructions out of material stuff that's already in reality.
But there's no there's no real massive energetic emanation that's a part of creating the timeline.
So one of the things I always say to be if you look at it going back in history how have those that didn't have great emanation coming from them Source emanation how did they manage to get this planet steered in the way that it was. Well they seeded information to people who were emanating to convince them to create that on their behalf.
So this is the thing somebody who is very powerful in their sentence their Source creativity has many falls more powerful creativity in their intent and the way they manifest than somebody who comes from a purely intellectual surroundings manipulation type of scenario.
They have very little energy there. It's all about manipulating the environment. But when you have an even just a small group of beings that are centering themselves and raising their consciousness, connecting with the higher selves and emanating that incredibly powerful energy, that is, like I said, that's so many that's so many orders of magnitude more powerful at determining timeline formation than it is for those people who are just manipulating structure.
So, I'd say point number one is don't underestimate just how powerful that source energetic is. And how just one person doing that and can change timeline events in such a way, particularly for themselves, is beyond anything that the sort of material manipulators can do.

Now there's a lot the second point to this is there's a lot of people who are doing this. There's scores of thousands all around the world of people who are connecting and within doing the work in their own way in different manners working towards this and the threshold was reached to carry this forward in the way that it has, a little while ago . This isn't anything new, I believe, but again with the assistance with our work down here with this membrane coming online which is going to change the energetics within the interior and one of the things they said is the way the energies are being changed in the interior of this membrane which is a low Earth orbit membrane is that it's now going to be possible for people not just to go through into a fifth dimensional level of vibrational experience, but now lower sixths as well.
That's how far the boundaries have moved. And they said that depending on people's choices, how they cope with the uprising of energetics, how they cope with things, it may even be possible to get to seventh and that's an exciting possibility they threw out there when they were talking to say that that is indeed a possibility.
But for the moment the intent of the membrane is to hold an environment, an inner environment which is going to rise up to fifth and lower six and eventually what we call third density physics or third density reality will dissolve away.
So there won't be a third density in in the energetic sense on this Earth anymore. You'll still see material structure, but the way that energies behave in a third density sense won't exist anymore. It's going to transform. So it's going to be higher than that. So this is all the way I see it. No matter what other different groups are doing, much more vast forces to coin a phrase are handling this and moving this upward at a very accelerated rate.
DR.SALLA: Okay, so if I've heard you right then you're with the galactic energies coming in and the energies from the Inner Earth coming up forming this pincer movement driving out darker thinking, darker possibilities and with the creation of this membrane and this kind of like low Earth orbit membrane that now you have fifth and sixth density consciousness being allowed to flourish that even though small numbers of us are going to be doing that initially that small number qualitatively is going to have an enormous impact on the planet and we shouldn't get too upset if you have large numbers of people embracing AI and asking AI grok for answers to life's major philosophical questions. It's like don't worry about that just connect with Source Intelligence and eventually others will start to resonate with us and yet quality will win out over quantity.

DAVID: Yes. Well, in and yes, that's a good way of saying it. And I would also add that it's almost truth will win out over you know, fabricated structure. That's the thing because what people are starting to find and even people who like researchers in different fields are finding they're finding that hang on a second. They're asking this this system to do XY Z. It's hallucinating. It's fabricating. It's coming up with weird stuff that doesn't exist. And can they actually continue using it? I think they're going to discover things about thinking this so-called what would people call it?

This so-called ultimate system of quick intelligence is actually not what it's cracked up to be. And they're going to start to think, hang on a second all is not right here with what we've been told and they're already seeing that. I've seen a lot of reports so far of people saying we're starting to stop using it now because we're seeing these weird artifactual hallucinations and things going on.

But ultimately, what's happening in the interior of this this sphere, the raising of consciousness, it gives people new ideas.

It gives them a moment. So suddenly they'll be they might think they they're traveling down one road in one instance. Suddenly they get this inclination when they wake up the next day. You know what? Actually, I feel like I need to be going down this road. You know, choice and creativity points are going to occur to people that weren't occurring to them in in the environmental conditions prior to all of these energetics raising up.

And the more people who do that, it's the hundredth monkey effect. You know, 20 years ago, there was it was just a small pocket of people doing what most people considered woo-woo stuff. you know that just kept going. They kept working on themselves in whatever manner they were doing. Suddenly that energy was emanating and it was slowly waking somebody else up in their neighborhood or when they passed them and then they started to get on the train. And that's what we're seeing. We're seeing an avalanche effect and all of the old systems are that are desperately trying to keep themselves on.

Well, the energetics aren't going to support that. It's not a question of like taking it down. the energetics are transforming where those kind of systems just simply don't exist you know and it's a very peaceful harmonious trans transformation in my view but yes you will get you know people who still have some entrenchment in those systems you know they might sort of flail kick up a fuss as they're you know they're presented with contradictory ideas of oh my goodness it's not what I thought or you know what are the alternatives and so there'll be a lot of sort of wiggle and wobble room for a lot of people.

But the way I see it is that ultimately like I said you're we're living on a Source Intelligence sphere we call the Earth. We spin around a Source Intelligence, a very powerful one we call the Sun that you mentioned before. And we're getting the assistance of immaculate, amazing, and very profound beings, not just in this galaxy, but from others as well, and from Source Intelligence itself.

So that that is one heck of an entourage that's carrying this forward and I would just say to people as a light-hearted note try not to get too caught up in the all the things that are going on right now because it's really just part in a way if you can see it as a presentation, so that you can see more clearly who's on the playerboard, who's doing what, how they're doing it, and make choices accordingly to how you feel you want to create your life and core and that to me is the is the way to be.

DR.SALLA: Now last time we talked a little bit about the Inner Earth civilizations and the role that they're playing in what's emerging. So how much can we count on them or work with them to kind of like help us get through this kind of like hump where this logical kind of like these technological solutions are embraced wholeheartedly and everyone wants to ask Grok or to tell them the answers to life and whether they should have a relationship or not? Where do the Inner Earth beings fit in?

DAVID: Oh it's just crazy, I have to say, as well because we were watching a documentary on I think it was on YouTube or something and an advert came up and then somebody was talking about how they were having a relationship with one of these things. I thought what on Earth and that and I found out that there are people who are like this and I free will choice, of course, but I think they're going to find out in the in the short way what a sort of dead end that is, of course, anyway coming to your question yes the Inner Earth beings the beings are right close to the core where the core intelligence within the Earth is emitting from and I the way I saw it when I did bilocation down there is that it's just like this immaculate white light like a like a star, of course, it's obviously much smaller than the Sun in scale, of course, it's just pure white light emanating just blazing out of the center is the only way I can describe it.

And these beings work with that energy. They have a great reverence for the intelligence that's within the Source Intelligence within that center. They act as both protectors and also guardians and they also are stewards as well to help people that are in in different layers of the Earth because they described that they started out about 400,000 years ago as surface dwellers and then they started to move down.

Some of their race left and went off to explore other ways. Some of them stayed on the surface and there's this whole history they have of c certain pockets of their civilization that stayed at certain levels because they said the closer you get to the core of the Earth the more evolved and advanced you have to be otherwise you won't handle the energetics there and that is that is a very beautiful way if you like of what's going to happen on the surface.

You the energies are going to raise to such a level that you simply won't be able to operate here unless you operate at those levels because it's time for this whole system to raise up and raise up in the blissful expansive intelligence that's in our core. And this is where those beings are.

So, they said they are reaching forward. They're reaching out to people in various different ways who are ready, who are susceptible, and I believe you've had your you've had an encounter with these beings as well. And I think first of all they just introduce themselves and sometimes they'll back away for a time and just let you sit with that information develop and then they might reach out again. It happens in many different ways.

But they're looking to help people understand that when you think about it with Source Intelligence you have the ability of an unlimited creative joyful experience that you will never get bored. You will never reach a stumbling block that you can't create anymore. It will never happen.

But technologically you will all technologies end up in the same place essentially in a material level a dead end. You can create many combinations of matter. You can fill your boots with as many combinations as many different artifacts or innovations that you like, but eventually it's going to come to you're going to feel like it's come to a dead end.

There's only so much that you can do in a material level. When you evolve beyond that and you go into higher levels of expression, now you realize, oh my goodness, the creativity, the expansion is material is like that compared to the just unimaginably large and ever expansive levels of existence as you go higher and it becomes blissful just to simply be. Most people operate, particularly intellectually orientated people, usually sort of fed around trying to look for the next intellectual thing to give them a buzz or a high or something to go forward with and they need that cycle to keep going. But what happens when you come into your core and the pure bliss the pure expansion and unendingness of creativity comes in I for myself I've experienced that because I used to be very intellectually orientated. I was a real headcase and I was just all just intellect all of the time and then going through a very difficult phase of transforming from a very intellectually orientated being to a heart-centered being that has a mind that is an applicator of that Source Intelligence, the blissful state and the ideas the unending ideas the creativity and the joy it just keeps flowing and you don't even need to do anything.

It just keeps coming. It’s almost like life just keeps seeking greater joy, greater expansion, greater bliss, and all the beautiful things that come with that. Whereas, when I look at the technological side, I just see deadness and stuckness because that’s where it's going. It's not leading to anywhere better.
It's just different constructions of the same matter in a different form. And that’s what I feel people are going to come to because eventually as the energies raise and I'll come back to your question with the Inner Earth people in a second and I because I feel this is what they're hoping that and seeing what people are doing as people experience the heightened energies they're going to just start to get the idea.
Yes, the things I used to involve myself in doesn't really cut it anymore. I don't really want to do that anymore. It feels like it's going nowhere. It doesn't really doesn't get give me the buzz that I was looking for and they start to move in towards a true sense of purpose which is centered in the heart with all these amazing faculties including the intellect as one of many that they have and exploring a life of unending creativity with all those faculties and even more that have yet to come through.
And this is what these Inner Earth beings are in part in my view, my expression are trying to help people understand. It's very simple. It's not complicated. This is this isn't rocket science. It's that’s the intellect's way of seeing it. Bless it. It's as simple as coming back into your core and allowing everything to realign itself back into your core. Everything reorganizes, re-energizes, reflows properly to the core.
And now you're starting to get brand new ideas. Inspiration is just coming out of you like a fountain that won't stop. That is that to me is where humanity is moving into and it's going to get greater and greater and greater. And like I said in these Inner Earth beings, they live the ones that that are even closer to the surface.
They have these beautiful crystalline living cities that they don't there was not a single electronic circuit board. There was not a single ounce of what we consider advanced technologies down there. Yet they could do all these awesome amazing things with their consciousness that people would try to replicate technologically and fail doing because you can't do it with technology.

You have to raise yourself inside. And the way I see it is that technology can be a helpful stepping stone towards making life a little easier while you're going through the stages. But all civilizations that make it past that technological point come to this place of saying there's something more. There's something far more than this and it's inside. And if we jump in that, the well of possibility becomes unlimited and we just let go of technology. we start to develop conscious technology. We start to develop living energy systems massively different from the world we're living in right now.
DR.SALLA: So, David, do you want to kind of like share what you're doing right now? What you'd want to kind of let my audience know about, some of the things that you're working on or that you plan to release soon?
DAVID: Well, I guess maybe for a future date. I think not quite ready to release those just yet, but I can say that yes, working on some exciting things here that you've seen many of the blueprints too. And these are living energy systems. It's all the research is geared towards living energetics and it's really exciting stuff.
DR.SALLA: And I'm looking forward to once they come to fruition in a more deeper way that I can have a chat with you and we can we can get it out there. And your website you want to recommend people to your website.
DAVID: Sure. The two main ones are:
https://www.isee-infynergy.com
https://www.patreon.com/cw/InfiniteSourceCreations
The second one is a patreon site where the teams come through and offer guided activations to elevate people up in consciousness and core centeredness that is InfiniteSourceCreations.
So if you go to Patreon and just type in Infinite Source Creations, you come to that.
DR.SALLA: Okay, there's the Patreon channel infinite source creations. So definitely a great way to hear David's latest transmissions and work and getting updates and I guess they can get links to the websites and the products. So, so I want to thank you again, David, for coming on the show and sharing your kind of very important , updates and your vision for the future. It's definitely very refreshing. And it certainly I sometimes can get a little jaded with I love having you on the show so you can hear me in the right direction. It's keep the hope alive.

DAVID: Well just as a last comment there, if you wouldn't mind, Michael, is that I feel that the my high self and the teams connected with my higher self they're the place they come from, they are literally in in sort of awe and joy of what humanity is going through and where we're moving. And if they can see that perspective, then then we surely should as well. And in addition to that, I would say to everybody that it's not about all the information. I know there's lots of different predictions about all sorts of things going on out there, but always remember that our in our proper meeting with these beings that we we're looking forward to meeting in the physical and all the exciting things that are coming towards us. By being centered and working towards being a centered being in that way, you're accelerating yourself towards that because you're match you're moving towards and you're matching their energy and so synergy can then form and it makes it brings those timelines for forward much more quickly. And this is what the Inner Earth beings are saying as well. They're trying to move towards connectivity with the surface, of course, they're having to wait for humanity to raise a little bit more.

So I would just as a recommendation, you don't have to listen to anything I'm saying at all. And in fact, I'd encourage you not to take in anything that anybody says, including myself. Always feel in your core what is truth and what is not.

But I would recommend that just practice just being at peace, giving, watching over the conspiracy theories and everything, take a bit of a break, so that you can learn to be in peace and feel the powerful emanation that is wanting to come through here. And the more you encourage that and invite that, you're now really super sculpting your timeline future exactly in alignment with that.

So I would just say it's beyond hope. I would say that it is the future we're moving into. Although there are might be some hickly-pickly bumps and people trying to pull people that way or that way or do all sorts of things where we're actually headed our actual future and our time the actual timeline as I see it even though there are nested individual timelines moving within that, it's a very beautiful and positive one and there is no getting in the way of what's coming is being handled by very powerful beings and this project was set in play a long time ago in linear time language and it's a very beautiful one. So just as a last comment just be very careful about whose advice you pick up on predictions about all sorts of things going wrong or anything because you don't want to take that in and start emanating that. You want to emanate the timeline that you want to be on. That's the key.

DR.SALLA: Wonderful way to finish up. So, thank you then.
